It involves the question of everything or nothing, of yes or no, and it will be final. No proper person will be excluded, and no property holder or business man would ask to be excused from attending, once he understood the importance of his counsel and his vote. The gravity of the situation is such and the necessity for an answer so urgent that no time was left in which to send out personal notices, which explains this public declaration.

THE CONGREGATIONALISTS IN THE CITY-

The closing day session of the Arkansa. Valley Association of Congregational churches commenced their services at the Olivet church, Rev. S. S. Matthew, pastor After a helpful service of prayer busines was brought before the assembly and with the usual success was acted upon promptly. A nice uplifting service of Bible Ex-position was conducted by the Rev. W. C. Veazie, State Evangelist. A breath of divine energy filled all hearts and carried the association through the following hours' business with profit to all. The large audience then gathered in the cosy dining room in the church annex where a sumptuous repast awaited the association and friends. The fair ladies of the Olivet and Plymouth churches attended to the wants of the gathering with an unfailing promptness and courtesy that in them selves were sure satisfying. It was a de lightful sight to see the many change themselves into Marthas, and Marthas without cumbersomeness.

At the afternoon session the report from the thirty-one churches were heard. The constant words of hopeful progress were truly inspiring. The superb rich voice of Mass Effa Cave, the noted soprano of this city, was heard with peculiar interest by the audience. The Rev. J. H. Parker, financial agent of Fairmount college, gave an address upon "The Churches and Education," in which the future of this rising college was pictured in an inspiring manner.

Then followed a strong, inspiring paper forcibly delivered, upon "Kansas for Christ," by the Rev. Dr. DeLong, of Arkansas City. This provoked a most profit-able discussion by many of the brethren present which continued until the hour of rendition of "Massa's in the Cold, Cold celebrating the Lord's supper, The presthis blessed service. In fact the whole Collins, also his plantation melody are all gathering has markedly exhibited the presence of God from the very first session. Something more than human was realized in the atmosphere which influenced the deliberations of this august body of followers of Christ. By many it was thought that no local association in the state of Kansas has equalled the one which has just closed, either in numeric representation or spiritual power. Before adjourning the association with a hearty good will passed the following resolution: Resolved, That we tender the heartfelt thanks of the Arkansas Valley Association of Congregational churches to the four sister churches of Wichita for their coursister churches of Wichita for their courteous and generous entertainment, especially to the ladies who have furnished such bountiful collations spread at the different churches, which contributed so greatly to the social element in our association; also to Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Munn and the friends of Fairmount, to the street car lines for the reduction in rates, to the press of the city, especially the Wichita Eagle, for opening their columns to our use, and to all other friends who have contributed to the success of the association tributed to the success of the association and comfort of the visitors. Thus closed a notable gathering which will long be remembered by the many participants and friends. The next semiannual meeting of the association will be with the new Congregational church at

THE REGATTA AND BALL Fine Races on the Little River-The Ball at Eagle Rifles' Hall Last Night.

The Wichita Boat Club gave a regatta yesterday on the lower course of the Little river. The racing commenced at 4 o'clock p. m. and was witnessed by a large num-ber of people, who assembled at Riverside The races were half mile and turn from the park, which called for the turn near the motor line bridge. quarter mile race.

The club will give their last regatta for the season about the middle of next month. Having won third place last fall at Chicago, they are quite anxions at the next contest in the association they can take

The program of the day was ended with ne of those delightful parties at the Eagle rifle armory, for which they have established a reputation of giving. A COLONIAL RELIC.

Last night the interest in the usual exercises of the G. A. R. Post of this city were heightened by the presentation from Mr. E. P. Postal Savings Bank System. One of the features of the government of Great Britain is the postal savings of Great britain is the postal kavings bank system. It is very popular and is largely patronized by the public. Its use-fulness is beyond all question. United States Consul Walling, at Liverpool, has been investigating this subject and has given some very interesting facts about its workings in a report to the secretary of state. The beginning of the government postal savings banks was in 1861 under a bill prepared and presented by Mr. Gladstone. It was entitled "an act affording additional facilities for deposit-ing small savings at interest with the ful light.-Pittsburg Bulletin security of the government for the due repayment thereof." On the day of the opening of the first banks under this act 435 deposits were received. One year afterward the number had increased so greatly that there were 2,535 offices open for the accommodation of the public. In 1886 the depositors had increased in number to 3,731,421, and the amount of money on deposit was £50,874,338. American money would be $250,000,000. Deposits of one shilling or any number of shillings are received up to $150 or £30. The interest paid is 2½ per cent a year on every full pound. Should the sum on deposit reach £250 the interest thereon will cease until the amount has been The government has made provision for the investment of larger sums beyond the control of the husbands.

Another feature of the British system is that the government guarantees the repayment of all moneys on deposit with interest, and also any life insurances or annuities granted under the act creating these banks. The results of the measure of Mr. Gladstone have been such as to recommend it to the good will of the people of Great Britain. That they do appreciate it is shown by their liberal patronage. The cost of maintaining it is very little, being about five-eighths of 1 per cent. The guarantee of the governnent makes the system absolutely safe. financial institution. Great Britain is not the only nation which has these postal savings banks. They are a feature of the American and Australian British colonies. They have been engrafted upon the political system of France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Japan.—Detroit Free Press.

The Causes of Poor Hair.

The first and great reason is that The first and great reason is that women do not keep their heads clean. Oftener they are too busy with house-keeping and children to give the hair the weekly shampooing and nightly brushing it needs. Still oftener they are too negligent or do not know that on strict clean-liness of the scalp depends their chances of having good hair at 55. Housework should be done with a muslin cap or towel folded to cover the hair to the roots. folded to cover the hair to the House dust, which is mainly dead anima matter thrown off by clothing and beds, is deadly to lungs and hair. When women comprehend the baleful influence of dust on the health, hair and complexion, they will banish carpets, uphoistering and unwashing draperies, at once and ferever, as the great receptacles and absorbents of dust. When curtains and absorbents of dust. and absorbents of dust. When curtains and carpets or large mats are used the air constantly receives floating dust at each movement; not much, it is true, in carefully kept houses, but quite enough as it gathers on the scalp, week after week, to form with its natural oil and sweat a thin malignant crust in which the root of the hair slowly decays and drops. As the most of women wash their heads not oftener than once in six weeks, the effect is best left indefinite. Scalp irritations are not unknown, causing months and rears of trouble. But oftener the skin years of trouble. But oftener the skin of the head, clogged and loaded with dead

Slaughter of the Innocents.

Who is responsible for the slaughter of the innocents in summer? In the heart of the city, and especially in the lower lying wards, the wall of children through-out these hot summer nights, when even the brick seem to palpitate with heat, is terrible. Children in close rooms, breathing fetid air; adults and children occupy-ing—overcrowding the same—rooms, with no means of escape. It is not in the power of the ablest physicians to save life under these circumstances. The chil-dren are often swathed in clothes that hasten their death. They are bound and wrapped by ignorant mothers as though it were midwinter. A physician might remedy this, but how can he supply the life giving oxygen? If he is not hardened he can only shudder, pass on and hope that after all there may be sound philosophy, even if there is no religion, in the doctrine of the "survival of the fittest."

But somebody is to blame. Is it the poor wretches who are tempted or compelled to herd together? What are city governments for if they do not make provision for the rablic health? There is vision for the public health? There is much attention given to the matter of protection from lire. Property is rated higher than human life. Go through the alleys. Count the doors with crape on them. Look at the surroundings, and, if you never realized it before, you will shudderingly admit the truth of the say-ing: "God made the country, man made the town." The daily death roll of little children shows man's handlwork in a fear-

The "early bird" does not always catch the "worm." the "worm." Twenty years ago, when Emma Abbott lived in the backwoods of Illinois, she tried to get an appointment to teach school. She read an ment in some paper of a teacher wanted in the next township. The town was seventeen miles away, and there was only one way for brave little Emma to get off, however, on the lonely and hazard-ous journey, only to find when she reached her destination that eleven other girls had got there in advance of her. Footsers and weary she crossed the threshold of the room in which the other applicants were sitting. A man was cross examining one of them, and as she en-tered all looked up. They were not a lit-tle surprised as she gasped out, "I have walked seventeen miles to get this place." The man jumped up from his seat and ex-claimed, "And you shall have it. Distributing Scarlet Fever Polson.

Dr. J. Brooke, surgeon United States army, of Fort Monroe, Va., communicates the following case: "A girl aged about 8, living at this place, was some menths ago attacked by scarlet fever, the disease running a typical course. For a long time no possible source of contagion could be dis-covered. The child had not been absent from home, had been with no one lately exposed, and no other case was known to exist anywhere in the vicinity. Subse-quently I learned that one of the house guently Freshed that the of the bound servents had nursed a case of scarlet fever in a distant city just about a year before. After the case terminated she packed some of her things, including some clothing then worn, in a trunk, and left the place. A year later she had the trunk sent to her here, opened it and took out the contents, the little girl being present and handling the things. Very soon after the latter was attacked, as stated."—Medical Record.
